

Louis DeJoy and Aldona Wos Family Foundation Continues its Support of the George W. Bush Presidential Center

The DeJoy\Wos Family Foundation supports initiatives and organizations that shape and advocate public policy in a free society. Since 2009, the foundation has supported the George W. Bush Presidential Center, which through its three Impact Centers -- Domestic Excellence, Global Leadership, and its Engagement Agenda -- focuses on developing leaders, advancing policy, and taking action to solve today's most pressing challenges.

In addition to the DeJoy\Wos Family Foundation's ongoing support and engagement, Louis DeJoy and Ambassador Aldona Wos were honored to attend a private luncheon reception with former President George W. Bush and First Lady Laura Bush on September 7, 2019.

Located on the campus of Southern Methodist University (SMU) in Dallas, Texas, the center's many initiatives include preserving history and shaping the future through its George W. Bush Presidential Library & Museum and The George W. Bush Institute.

- As the nation's 13th presidential library, the Bush Presidential Library and Museum promotes an understanding of the American presidency, examines the specific time in history during which President Bush served, and provides access to official records and artifacts from the Bush Administration.
- The Bush Institute is an action-oriented, nonpartisan policy organization that develops leaders, advances policy, and takes action to solve today's most pressing challenges. Its work is inspired by the principles that guide President and Mrs. Bush in public life.
